Residential Life .....

Of the approximately 18,000 students that attend UMass, a little over half live in one of the five residential areas located on campus. These include: Orchard Hill, Central, Southwest, Sylvan, and Northeast. Southwest, the largest area, alone houses over 5,000 students.

Off-campus housing is an option for many juniors and seniors. Many popular apartment complexes, including Puffton Village, the Townehouses, and Brandywine, cater to students of the University. However, some choose to live in surrounding towns, like Northampton, Hadley, and Sunderland.

"I have the greatness to bend history itself, but each of us can work

Seniors Class of 2001 of

We survived four (or maybe more) years at UMass and are finally ready to enter the "real" world. We have made new friends, joined student organizations and sports teams, and taken dozens of classes preparing us for graduation. Each of us has found a niche at UMass, whether it be social or academic. As we leave UMass, some of us will take lasting friendships, some of us will take memories of our triumphs, and some of us will take the words of professors who have changed the way we think. We all will take the knowledge we have gained. Whether we are starting careers, entering graduate school, or taking time off, we are all bound by one thread- we are all now UMass alumni.

LETTER FROM THE EDITOR

Having come to the University from all over, some of us from just down the street, others from out of state, and some from the opposite side of the world, it sounds unbelievable that our time at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst has come to an end. The paths that brought us here are many and diverse, but now these paths have led us to one common destination, we are all members of the graduating class of 2001 at UMass Amherst.

As we start the next phase of our lives, each one of us takes away something different from our past four, five, and, for some, even six years here. For some of us, the academic experiences at the University are what stand out in our minds. Twenty years from now we will remember the time we spent sitting in Mahar Auditorium listening to Professor Lisa Maurizio teaching about Greek Mythology or Professors Albey Reiner or Steve Goodwin lecturing about the Biology of Cancer and Aids. We will have walked away from this University proud of the fact that we had graduated after years of hard academic work.

However, I'm willing to bet that most of us will walk away remembering more of the non-academic parts of our lives at UMass. When looking back at our years here, we will probably not even think about the time we sat in class, but rather the time we decided to get that extra hour of sleep because, at that moment, it seemed a little more important than learning about Newton's laws of Physics or Darwin's Theory of Evolution. Most of us, when thinking about UMass twenty years from now, will remember the excitement of Midnight Madness, the late nights we stayed up playing Golden Eye or Mario Kart with our friends instead of writing the all-important paper that was due the next day, or the many times that we ran after a bus thinking that it was ours only to realize that it wasn't once we got to the bus stop. Some may remember the time dedicated to the marching band - standing out in the freezing cold rain. And then there are those of us who weren't in the marching band and lived in Southwest and will never forget the Saturday mornings when the band marched through Southwest just after we had finally fallen asleep. Some of us will most definitely remember some kind of experience with Frat Row, be it if we were the ones who helped someone get home or were the ones being helped home. And then there are things we will remember that I can't talk about up here, and many more memories that you will have that the rest of us may never know about.

The relationships that we have formed over the past few years with the people around us are the most important things that we will take from our experiences at UMass. Each and every one of us has met at least one person who has forever changed our lives. Some of these people may have only been in our lives for a couple of days, but the impact that they left will never be forgotten. Others are friends who we will stay in contact with and ten, twenty, and even thirty years from now we will continue to relive those precious moments that we shared while at UMass. Some of us are fortunate enough to have met the person that we will spend the rest of our lives with. Also, when looking back, some of us will remember the faculty, teaching assistants, and staff that influenced our time here. They are the ones who went that extra mile, the ones who stayed a little longer to help us understand what was being taught, and the ones who we sometimes turned to when we had nowhere else to go. To them, we owe a debt of gratitude.

So as we enter this next phase of our lives, be it more schooling or entering the work force, we should take everything that we have learned and experienced here at UMass, both academic and non-academic, and do as much as we can to make the most of our lives, achieve our goals, and make our presence known to the world. Robert F. Kennedy put it best when he said, "Few will have the greatness to bend history itself, but each of us can work to change a small portion of events, and in the total of all these acts will be written the history of this generation."

College of Humanities and Fine Arts

A Message from Dean Edwards

Composed of 26 departments and programs offering 37 undergraduate majors, 26 minors, 20 masters, and nine doctoral degrees, the College of Humanities and Fine Arts is the largest and most diverse on the UMass Amherst campus. We have several excellent and nationally ranked departments, including English, History, Philosophy, and Linguistics, which is always in the top four departments nationwide; similarly, our MFA program in creative writing consistently places in the top ten. Faculty authored 26 books in 1999 and 2000 and won prizes that include the Pulitzer, the National Book Award, the Guggenheim, NEH grants, and several MacArthur "Genius Awards".

And yet, despite our size and scholarly repute, the College is a place that values teaching, that provides small classes, individual attention, and that places a great deal of emphasis, throughout the curriculum, on writing. We offer numerous opportunities to study abroad. Special advisors help students attain internships that are relevant to both their majors and their future plans.

Students in the College will enlarge their fundamental skills in reading, writing, and speaking and develop new skills in logic and aesthetic expression. The study of languages and literatures, history and philosophy, cultures and society exercises, and enriches the minds of all who engage seriously in these pursuits. The arts, too, serve as modes of knowledge and ways of apprehension. The College's curriculum is designed to encourage students to become more competent, thoughtful, reflective, and humane. The College's graduates should be equipped to make their lives as well as earn their livings.

Sincerely,
Dean Lee Edwards

College of Natural Sciences and Mathematics

A message from Dean Hallock

As Dean of the College of Natural Sciences and Mathematics, your graduation fills me with pride for your job well-done, as well as with great anticipation for the exciting opportunities that await you. Not so many years ago, I too graduated from UMass with a bachelors degree in Physics. Like many of you, I experienced the vibrant spirit of a research university through engagement in my own undergraduate research project. The excitement of research that was communicated to me during those years at the University has stayed with me throughout my life. I hope that you will look back on your years at the University with similar satisfaction when you have reached whatever vantage point that your future holds.

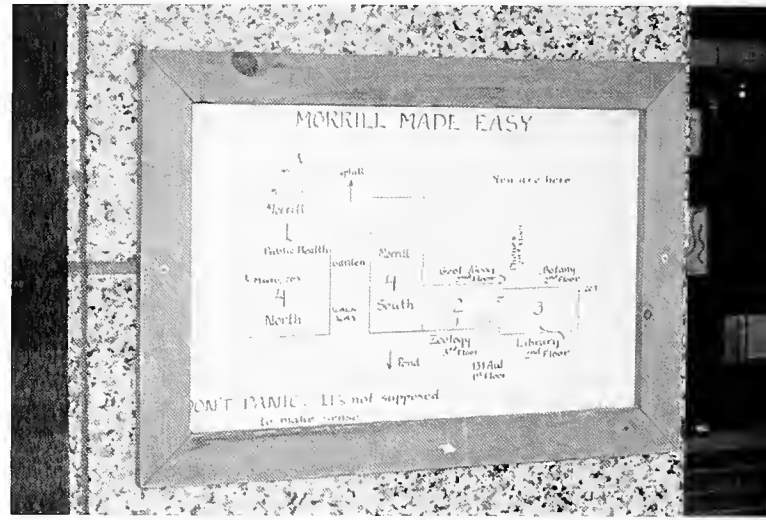

Half of you will remain in Massachusetts, becoming part of the state's educated workforce. With solid backgrounds in science and mathematics, you are well-equipped for the demanding high technology and life science industries. Those of you who will seek careers outside of science will find that what you have learned here has prepared you for life in an increasingly sophisticated technological world, where the ability to think clearly and deploy analytical skills are prerequisites for success.

How UMass has prepared you to engage the world as an educated person is only one aspect of your graduation. We are reminded every day that the strength of the College lies not only in its faculty, staff, and students, but increasingly in its graduates. We look to you to support our shared endeavors in the future, and to keep in touch!

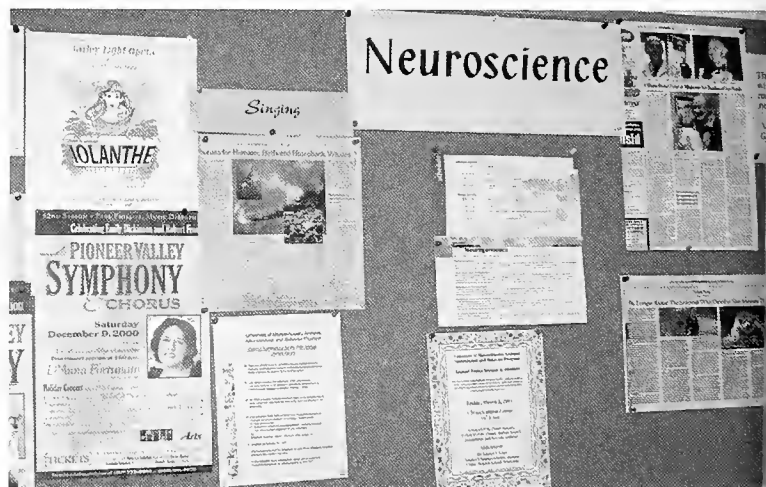

Best Wishes,

Dean Robert B. Hallock

A message from Dean Gordon

As one of the largest colleges on the UMass Amherst campus, the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences helps thousands of students achieve an understanding of culture, society, and individual behavior. The departments in the College have traditionally been recognized for their academic outreach. Members of the College faculty have been honored with numerous prestigious awards, election to high office in their respective disciplines, and by appointment to major editorship positions for the top professional journals in their fields.

Recent dramatic changes throughout the world have required us to rethink the way we teach and work. In addition to our undergraduate major requirements, our faculty have developed an innovative college-wide curriculum that emphasizes community service and internships, along with study abroad courses which provide an international perspective, an essential part of life and work in today's global community. This emphasis, aided by the generous support of alumni, has helped make internships and study abroad a reality for many students in the College. In fact, more students in the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences go on internships than any other school or college on campus, and the number of our students studying abroad has increased dramatically in the last five years.

The College also has exceptional interdisciplinary/multidisciplinary programs. Four degree-granting programs, one certificate program in Latin American Studies, and minor in Modern European Studies are offered. In addition, the Labor Relations and Research Center, the Massachusetts Institute for Social and Economic Research, and the Social and Demographic Research Institute are very well-respected for their outreach activities and multidisciplinary orientations. The College's commitment to the integration of the learning, research, and outreach enterprises has helped faculty, students, and alumni make a positive difference in our state, country, and world.

Sincerely,
Dean Glen Gordon

College of Engineering

A message from Dean Goldstein

It's no small thing to say that our graduates not only have a hand in running the world, but in how the world runs.

In just over 50 years, the College of Engineering has produced more than 14,000 engineers. While many of our graduates stayed here in the Commonwealth, others have gone abroad and used their problem-solving skills in a variety of careers, from engineering and management to film and jewelry design. We applaud them all. This year, several hundred more engineering students, the Class of 2001, earn their degrees and begin what we hope will be long and rewarding careers.

This is the first year that a graduating class has decided to give the College a class gift. By this fall, we will have installed the table and benches, gifts of the Class of 2001, in the engineering quad. We hope that this is a beginning of a lifetime connection to the College.

Class of 2001, I speak on behalf of the entire College when I applaud you for your hard work. Earning an engineering degree is not a simple accomplishment, but it makes possible a career that matters. There are roads ahead of you to build, cars to design, computer hardware to plan. There's a manufacturing plant to retool and a company that will produce needed pharmaceuticals more efficiently thanks to the knowledge you have gained here. We welcome return visits from all of our graduates- come see the ongoing changes in the College, consider joining the Engineering Alumni Association, and most importantly, let us know how you're changing the world!

Sincerely,

Dean Joseph Goldstein

The College's Mission

The Mission of the College is to advance knowledge in its core areas by fulfilling its evolving land grant responsibilities and those of the University. To accomplish this, the College offers broad educational opportunities to a wide spectrum of public audiences, conducts applied and basic research that addresses the needs of citizens, businesses, and public agencies and makes numerous outreach opportunities accessible to its constituents. The College is uniquely qualified, equipped, and committed to fulfilling its land grant responsibilities by promoting and contributing to economic development, environmental quality, and human capacity building through programs in the College. The Stockbridge School of Agriculture, founded in 1918, is part of the College. It offers excellent educational opportunities to highly motivated students who have the initiative to learn.

After the successful completion of course requirements, graduates receive the Associate of Science degree. Stockbridge has over 9,000 alumni/ae, many of whom are now certified arborists, landscape contractors, prominent poultry farmers, fruit and vegetable or dairy farmers, superintendents of golf courses, laboratory technicians, managers of agricultural businesses, and owners of florist shops or nurseries, to mention only a few. The successful careers of graduates are the best proof of the value of this kind of concentrated, technical education.

School of Nursing

A message from Dean Breslin

The School of Nursing today has over 3,000 alumni living in 47 states and seven foreign countries. For those of us leading the way to excellence in the School of Nursing, alumni are an important resource. We have reshaped our focus in conjunction with the land grant mission of the University and are now prepared for the 21st century as a force in baccalaureate, masters, and doctoral levels.

I am pleased to congratulate you and welcome you as the newest members of our alumni group. I encourage you to continue your connection with UMass through alumni events, such as our annual reunion, as well as through your involvement on the School of Nursing Alumni Board. Your experiences, successes, and loyalty inspire us to do the best we can for the students of today. We are always grateful for the support and commitment of our alumni. We look to you to continue to carry the message to others about the value and importance of your education at the School of Nursing at the University of Massachusetts Amherst. Once again, congratulations and best wishes.

A message from Dean Gehlbach

The School of Public Health and Health Sciences has over 5,000 alumni from our six departments. Ours is the only state-funded school of public health in New England, and the school prides itself on outreach to many regional constituencies. For those of us leading the way to excellence in the School of Public Health and Health Sciences, our alumni constitute our greatest source of strength.

Congratulations on earning your degree and your accomplishments while here at UMass. Now that you are joining the ranks of our alumni, we invite you to become involved in activities such as our annual alumni dinner. We also look forward to staying connected with you through the alumni newsletter. Your experiences, successes, and loyalty will inspire us to do the best we can for the students of today. We are always grateful for the support and commitment of our alumni. Perhaps most important of all, we count on you to share with others the importance and quality of the education you received from the School of Public Health and Health Sciences at the University of Massachusetts Amherst. Best wishes.

School of Education

A message from Dean Jackson

Dear Members of the Class of 2001:

I am pleased and proud to offer my congratulations as you complete your courses of study at the University of Massachusetts Amherst and prepare to leave our campus with your bachelor's degree. You have worked hard and you have done well. And now, you stand ready to move on to a new phase in your lives, one in which you face the world, the work place, or the continuation of your formal education armed with the skills, the knowledge, and the experiences that you have gained here as undergraduates. As you face the challenges of defining your future, I hope you will also embrace the opportunities that your education at UMass has given you: the opportunities and, indeed, the responsibilities that your first-class education entails. We look to you not only to continue to do well, but to do us proud.

As the School of Education within the University of Massachusetts Amherst, we are committed to the role of education in our larger society as well as in our schools. The challenge of transforming theory into practice lies at the heart of our enterprise; in truth, the transformative power of education lies at the core of our mission.

And so, as we take the moment to congratulate you and celebrate the accomplishments of the Class of 2001, we might also take a moment to pause and reflect not only on all you have done, but on all you may have yet to do. Best wishes to you all.

Sincerely,

A message from Dean O'Brien

On behalf of the faculty and staff of the Isenberg School of Management, congratulations! We shall miss you and your classmates. You are one of a number of talented and able students we are proud to send into the world of work with a full kit of tools and, most importantly, the ability to learn and distinguish good ideas from bad.

Go forth and demonstrate to the world, as previous Isenberg School students have done, that you are a real asset for organizations that want to accomplish important things. Remember where you have come from. Be proud of your roots. Remember those who will follow you at UMass, and how much alumni involvement and generosity means for them.

Commonwealth College

The Commonwealth College offers academically talented students small and challenging classes in every major. At UMass Amherst, there are approximately 1,900 honors students involved in a wide spectrum of academic areas and extracurricular activities.

In the Commonwealth College, students engage in interdisciplinary seminars, honors courses, colloquia, independent studies, service learning, and honors projects, theses, or activities. Students can also enroll in distance-learning classes taught by faculty across the commonwealth.

The Commonwealth College is a recent addition to the UMass campus, replacing the existing Honors Program. While seniors this year are still considered to be Honors Program members, the Honors Program is being phased out and all incoming students are now part of the Commonwealth College. In order to graduate Cum Laude, Magna Cum Laude, or Summa Cum Laude, students must be members of the Commonwealth College or Honors Program.

Distinguished Teaching Award

advice n 1. an opinion or recommendation offered as a guide to action, conduct, etc.

Each year Distinguished Teaching Awards are presented to three faculty members and two assistants for going beyond the call of duty in the classroom and offering superior guidance and instruction. Another faculty member and a professional staff member are also honored as outstanding advisors.

The prizes are announced at an annual awards banquet sponsored by the Office of the Vice Chancellor for Research.

The faculty winners of the Distinguished Teaching Awards for 2001 were Sociology professor Robert Faulkner, assistant professor Robert Sullivan of Germanic Languages and Literatures, and Psychology professor Susan Whitbourne. Two teaching assistants—Vija Mendelson of Spanish and Portuguese and Raymond Sharick of Educational Policy, Administration—receive the teach-

Long recognized as the campus's most prestigious prize for teaching, the Distinguished Teaching Award was established in 1962. The plaque and a monetary prize of $3,000 for faculty members and $2,000 for teaching assistants.

The names of DTA winners are also added to permanent displays in the Lincoln Campus Center and the recipients are recognized during the Undergraduate Commencement ceremony.

Nominations for the awards are made by current and former students to a committee of faculty, undergraduates and previous graduate student winners of the prize. The committee makes the award selections.

In recognition of the important role of advising, Azanda Seymour and James F. Walker have been named 2001's Outstanding Academic Advisors.

Seymour is an academic advisor and assistant director of the Committee for the Collegiate Education of Black and other Minority Students (CCEBMS). An associate professor of Physics, Walker serves as associate dean for the College of Natural Sciences and Mathematics.

As the campus's top advisors, Walker and Seymour also receive a plaque and a $3,000 cash prize.

CENTRAL

"You can be yourself in Central and that's cool with everybody." ~ Stefan Von Imof

"Every person does their own thing and no one looks twice, it's so laidback, very cool." ~ Kelly Craven

Central, the second largest living area on campus is comprised of nine buildings clustered near the infamous "hill."

In Upper Central, residents of Butterfield have the pleasure of running and eating in their own dining hall. Close by, Van Meter stands as the largest dorm on the UMass campus. Walk down the hill a bit and you'll encounter the Native American Cultural Center in Chadbourne. The poplar student-run business, Greeno Sub Shop, is in the basement of Greenough located next door. Many find solace in their delicious subs, cookies and Fresh Samanthas.

In Lower Central, you'll find the New Africa House and located right below is Wheeler, home to a student art gallery. Across the street, Gorman's NUANCE program works with students of many different ethnic backgrounds. In the Brett/Brooks cluster, Brett has the distinction of being a nine month housing building.

Central offers one of the most unique and diverse atmospheres on campus.

NORTHEAST

Located between Totman Physical Education Building, Lederle Graduate Research Center, and Worcester Dining Commons, Northeast provides convenient resources. This residential area has the prestige of being the oldest on campus and houses the United Asia Learning Resource Center and Foreign Language House. Students usually can be found playing football, frisbee, or volleyball in the Quad, the grassy area around the dorms.

Let's see how many people we can fit in here!

Orchard Hill

Webster, Dickinson, Field, and Grayson are the four buildings that make up Orchard Hill. Located between Central and Sylvan, Orchard Hill is home to the residential programs offered by the Commonwealth College. Commonwealth College students have the opportunity to take some smaller classes in rooms on the first floor of these residential buildings.

During much of the year, many students take the opportunity to play outside as much as possible. In the winter, students sled down the hills on lunch trays and play in what is known as the "bowl". Similarly, when it rains, students gather in the bowl and have mud fights.

Orchard Hill, like every other residential area, has special events for its residents. On the first weekend of May, Orchard Hill holds the May Bowl Weekend. During this time, bands play on the hill. Many people dance, and thoroughly enjoy themselves. Residents from Central join in the festivities of music, dancing, and sunbathing.

Each building also has its own unique features, such as weight rooms and rec rooms. Like the Sylvan Snack Bar or the Greenough Sub Shop, Orchard Hill has Sweets 'n' more located in Field. Sweets 'n' more serves ice cream, cookies, and other baked goods as well as snacks.

Students enjoy a unique style of living in Orchard Hill. The rooms include a built in area for desks and a little private closet for each resident. Each floor has two lounges with balconies where people can relax. The buildings are arranged so that each has a side facing the bowl. Orchard Hill provides an atmosphere unavailable in any other area.

SOUTHWEST

Southwest is the most populated residential area at UMass. Built in the 1960's, Southwest's 5 towers and 11 low-rises house about 5,000 students. Even though Southwest is a bit far from the Campus Center, many people choose to live here for various reasons: ethernet, Z-rooms, the feeling of living "off-campus," the lively city-like atmosphere, and the TAPs. Most of the TAPs (Talented Advancement Programs) at UMass such as BioTAP, CompSciTAP, PsychTAP, PolysciTAP, NurseTAP, EnviroSciTAP, MathTAP, etc. are here. Many of the universities athletes live here, as well. The Malcolm X Center, the Munchie Store, the Athletic Dining Hall, the Hampden Gallery, Boyden Gym, the Stonewall Center are located here. For your dining pleasure, not one, but TWO dining halls are located in Southwest.

Sylvan

Sylvan is on top of the hill on Eastman Lane, behind Northeast. Sylvan, unlike any other living area, provides suite living for its residents. This type of living entails a suite that contains 6-8 men or women, one bathroom, and a lounge. No other area on campus provides such a situation. Suite living is not the only thing unique to Sylvan. The smallest living area on campus provides a wide variety of activities and events for its residents, such as the Sylvan Extravaganza, and the multi-cultural dinner. Each of the three buildings, Brown McNamara, and Cashin also sponsor their own events for their residents. Throughout the year, Sylvan has also taken part in competitions, such as basketball tournaments, against the other neighbor living areas. This year, Brown opened a new Rec Room sponsored by their house council and the residents. These residents held an on going fundraiser to purchase new equipment. McNamara is home to the Sylvan Snack bar where residents can order food and have it delivered to their room. Yet another unique feature of Sylvan is the close community the buildings provide. Some say Sylvan is "really far away" or "too small," but others enjoy the smaller, quieter, more secluded atmosphere Sylvan provides.

Off-Campus Housing

Sunderland

Sunderland offers students a living area away from the rush of Amherst. Nestled among the mountains, the apartments in Sunderland such as Cliff Side, Lantern Court, and Sugarloaf offer spectacular views of the surrounding area.

Many upperclassmen choose to live off-campus during their years here at UMass. While apartments in Amherst seem to be the most popular choice for UMass undergrads, many students prefer to get away from the campus craziness and head to the surrounding towns of Sunderland, Belchertown, and Northampton. Each town offers its own unique style of living and partying. This range creates a diverse college community here, in the Pioneer Valley.

Northampton

Across the Connecticut River, Northampton provides the only city atmosphere in the Pioneer Valley. Home to many shops, restaurants, bars, and dance clubs, many UMass students either make their home there or head to Northampton for a fun weekend night.

Hobart Lane

Known for its wild parties and its yearly 'Hoedown,' most students make at least a few trips to Hobart Lane during their time here.

Crestview Apartments

Within in walking distance to Hobart, Puffton, Brandywine, the Townhouses, and campus, Crestview is a good place to live in Amherst.

Puffton Village

Home to many UMass students, Puffton Village is close to campus and has its own PVTa bus stop.

Downtown Amherst

Close to many restaurants, bars, and shops, Downtown Amherst possesses many highly sought-after apartments.

Active Ingredients

Active Ingredients was founded in the Fall of 1998 as a multimedia sketch comedy troupe. Every aspect of their shows, from writing to performing, is handled by a core group of actors. On average Active Ingredients performs three shows a semester, each one free of charge to the public. Starting with an all-cast brainstorming session, the group develops each show which consists of longer skits and short comedic sequences. Every show also features a satirical song on many campus related subjects, such as Whitmore, dining services, the cluster office, parking stickers, etc. After each session the scripts are written, scenes are cast, and props and costumes are gathered. For each show there are typically four to five skits and about twenty filler sequences. The end of the Spring 2001 semester saw the loss of four Active Ingredients Seniors, Rob Killeen, Sue Abbott, Ottavia D'Alelio, and Mike Milner. These members were a pinnacle part of making Active Ingredients the comical force it is and their presence will be missed in future years. Active Ingredients looks forward to adding more dedicated members each year and to performing comedy and entertaining the students of UMass.

Presenting: The Complete Works of William Shakespeare - Abridged

The Complete Works of William Shakespeare - Abridged was performed, free of charge to the public, by members of Active Ingredients on April 25th, 27th, 28th, and May 15th 2001. The three actors involved in the show, Jordan Zolan, Rob Killeen, and Mike Milner, attempted to perform thirty-seven of Shakespeare's complete works in an hour and a half. The first act is devoted to the thirty-six comedies, histories, and tragedies, while the second act is completely devoted to Hamlet. Not only do the actors run the entire play, but they do it twice more, each time at an increasingly faster pace. The culmination of the show is an attempt at an incredible feat. The actors performed an abbreviated version of Hamlet backwards.

The production of The Complete Works was an independent project for which the actors and a half dozen crew members raised money, built sets, acquired costumes and props, and designed lighting and sound. After receiving two thousand dollars in grant money and obtaining the rights to the show, the energetic actors got right to the rehearsal process. Their enthusiasm was demonstrated by the large amount of audience participation. Each night provided a different spin on the show. The production was a huge success and a wonderful experience for all involved.

Chancellor David K. Scott Resigns

After completing his five-year strategic action plan, which started in 1995, Chancellor Scott resigned from his position. Chancellor Scott took over in 1993 when Chancellor Richard O'Brien left UMass after a string of controversial events. Chancellor Scott's time at the University was not free of controversies either. During his tenure, Goodell and the Admissions building were both taken over by mobs of students who were unhappy with the administration's policies on diversity and tuition hikes, respectively. In 1997, students occupied Goodell for six days until the Chancellor negotiated a 21-point settlement with the students. In 1994, Chancellor Scott agreed to oppose tuition hikes in order to stop the siege on the Admissions building. Also in the Fall of 1999 the University was struck with a series of alleged sexual assaults. In response, the Chancellor gave students screech alarms and held open forums to discuss safety on campus.

During David Scott's time as Chancellor the University also saw many positive changes. In the early 1990s David Scott was able to lead the campus through great financial hardships due to the massive national economic downturn. In 1993 Scott introduced the University to his five year strategic action plan, which restructured parts of campus and increased revenue. He also led a $128 million fundraising campaign which ended one year ahead of schedule. He has also handled many budget cutbacks handed down to him by state legislatures.

In commenting on Scott's time at the University President Bulger said, "David Scott has made an enormous contribution to the University... [which] has risen to new heights... He was able to accomplish so much despite assuming the chancellorship during dark fiscal days... Under his leadership, the Amherst campus has made impressive strides in a number of key areas..."

Chancellor Scott said that he felt "honored to have served the University for the past eight years.. It has also been a privilege to serve a University committed to public service..."

UMass Circle K

The UMass Chapter of Circle K was founded in 1995. Circle K is an international service organization and is a member of Kiwanis. Currently Circle K is the largest collegiate service organization in the world. Circle K International is truly an international organization with over 10,000 members from approximately 500 clubs in 12 countries. It is also a part of a much larger organization: Kiwanis International. KI is a worldwide service organization composed of civic leaders who have the desire to become personally involved in making their communities better places to live. Kiwanis Clubs sponsor Builders Clubs in junior high schools, Key Clubs in high schools, and Circle K Clubs in colleges and universities. Through the sponsored youth committee, these Kiwanis Clubs offer advice, manpower assistance, and financial support to their younger counterparts. Together, Kiwanis, Builders Club, Key Club, and CKI make up the Kiwanis Family.

*MassLive's CampusCam was located at Antonio's Pizza in Amherst, where the slices are hot and the action goes well into the wee hours. The web camera caught the aware and unaware alike and provided for some interesting pictures.

*The OFFcampusCam offered a look inside the lives of three UMass seniors--Deanna, Laura and Ruth-- as they went about their everyday business. Viewers could not only take a sneak peek into the girls' lives, but they could interact through live chats as well.

Kappa Kappa Gamma

This semester, the Delta Nu Chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma bids farewell to 14 seniors graduating in May. These girls have made the walls tough and friendships strong. For some, they have lived in Kappa for four years and they have held positions as long as they have been here. All in all, each one has contributed widely, in their own way to Delta Nu. Good luck to the Class of 2001.

"Life isn't a matter of milestones but of moments" - Rose Kennedy

"We cannot tell what may happen to us in the strange medly of life. But we can decide what happens in us... and that is what really counts in the end. How to take the raw stuff of life and make it a thing of worth and beauty." - Joseph Fort Newton.

As we say goodbye to the girls that have contributed to the "mold" of Kappa Kappa Gamma, we bring in the new, with 10 new members of Srping 2001.

PVTA: Need a Ride?

The PVTA (Pioneer Valley Transit Authority) provides rides for students all year long. With increasing parking shortages and rising on-campus parking costs, the PVTA offers an alternative for students who either can't or won't park on campus. Both environmentally friendly and free of charge, the PVTA brings students to and from campus, dorms, off-campus apartments, other area colleges, shopping markets, and malls. In fact, UMass students really don't need to bring cars to college with them at all.

The PVTA not only brings students where they need to go, but it also employs many student drivers. Gordon Bedford, a senior, has been driving buses for the PVTA for several years. He recalls the PVTA driver shortage fall semester. "Being a bus driver during the driving shortage was very difficult. Everyday at the garage, the management would be in a frenzy trying to cover all the routes. Any driver who showed his or her face would be asked to drive. We all really felt the pressure to keep the wheels rolling. And while walking around campus, all the talk was about how much everyone hated UMass Transit. Thank goodness that we have enough drivers now to cover all the shifts. Once again, driving is enjoyable."

Because of the bus driver shortage fall semester, the PVTA recruited many new drivers.

Thanks for the ride!

Waiting for the bus in front of the Fine Arts Center..

All aboard! The PVTA even has its own Web site.

Snow Day!

This past winter, UMass experienced an unprecedented three snow days. It is unprecedented because as News Director Barbara Pitoniak mentions, "Days off for snow are very rare." According to Marc Fournier, Assistant Director of Grounds Management, UMass received 75.7 inches of snow over twenty-one storms during the season. That is compared to 30.2 inches over seven storms the year before. With every mention of an impending storm, students, faculty, and staff were poised near their computers or phones to find out the closing status as soon as it changed. As a result of Mother Nature, the UMass community was treated to many mornings of sleeping in.

Vocal Suspects

The two and a half year old UMass Vocal Suspects is a co-ed acapella group. We are a recently esteemed Registered Student Organization. We have just received grants from both the UMass Arts Council and the UMass Alumni Association. These grant allocations are going toward our CD project, which will be released in the Spring of 2002.

We have had an amazing two and a half years: welcoming incredible talent and also saying good-bye to some of that talent. As a group, we are not only looking ahead to the future talented members and what we can accomplish for the community, but also remembering what we have grown from --virtually nothing. What we have become now is a group of amazing musicians and wonderful individuals who have made innovative progression in the acappella tradition.

Ballroom Dance Club

The UMass Ballroom Dance Club is an organization on campus whose goal is to promote interest and knowledge in ballroom dancing. This group meets weekly on campus and teaches its members different dances that can accompany a range of music from classical to the latest pop. The dances can range from ballroom dances such as waltzes and foxtrots, to the upbeat swing dancing, where there are jumps and throws, to the sensual Latin dancing, such as cha-cha and rumba. The club reaches out to the rest of the student population by sponsoring two dances per semester. These dances give a lesson in a couple of different dances and then general dancing. It has been a success in making the world of ballroom more known to the student body.

Everyone does their version of the Monster Mash at the Ballroom Dance Club's Halloween party.

Aside from social dancing, the UMass Ballroom Dance Club has a branch that acknowledges the competitive world of ballroom dancing. Meeting on a weekly basis, the team practices and prepares for competitions hosted by other colleges around the eastern side of the United States. Thus, in the realm of ballroom dancing as one of the newest additions to the Olympic sport, the UMass Ballroom Dance has started making its mark on dancing more recognized on campus.

Jacky and Diane show their skills during the club's "Swing into Spring" night.

The UMass Ballroom Dance Club sponsors a five college spring dance in order to inspire interest in ballroom dancing.

Alternative Spring Break

The Alternative Spring Break (ABS) program consists of a trip and corresponding class that explore how grassroots organizations work to effect social change for the common good. ABS 2001 traveled to six different locations: Caroline County, Ivanhoe, Westmorland, Cape Charles, and New Road. This is the program's fourth year. The program has expanded from a group of seventeen students to over 100 students working in six communities. During spring break, students participate in construction, demolition, community clean-up, and informal mentoring work with young people in the community.

AASA strives to provide Asian and Asian American students with a concrete foundation be it through social, educational, and/or political means. One of the events that AASA held this year included a Bowling Tournament at Noho Bowling. Teams of two competed against each other. The first place team received $100, and the second place team received $50.

Other events that AASA sponsored include the publication of RealizAsian, the journal of UMass AASA that is dedicated to the Asian American voice on campus, a bus trip to New York, a $300 essay contest, etc.

AASA members who went to a "Taste of Asia" also got a taste of AASA events.

Part of the executive board gets a snack after the 18th annual Asian Night. Asian Night is the biggest event that is sponsored by AASA.

At least thirty people came to "A Taste of Asia" where food from different cultures, such as Korean, Japanese, Vietnamese, Indian, and Chinese, were available. This event, along with the general meeting discussion that followed, helped to promote the understanding and awareness of the Asian and Asian American community and its surrounding communities.

Casino night was both a fundraiser and a social event. Approximately eighty people participated in blackjack and roulette. All proceeds went to AASA to aid in the production of events.

STudent Alumni Relations Society

STARS is a student organization at UMass Amherst which serves as the link between the current students and its alumni. The main purpose of its events and activities is to enhance students' experiences while at UMass. Interaction between present students and alumni, which in turn increases involvement for the betterment of the University, is promoted. Members of STARS participate in valuable leadership and professional experiences, gain a stronger appreciation for UMass, and have a significant positive influence in the college community. It is this whole UMass involvement that makes STARS one of the most valued organizations on campus!!!

During 2000-2001:

STARS was presented two District Awards. President of STARS Carolyn Labuda was awarded Outstanding Student Member of a Student Alumni Association in the District (New England and Southern Canada), and the Commencement Ball was named Most Outstanding Program in the District. This is the first time STARS has won these specific awards. The pride felt amongst members was quite outstanding in and of itself. UMass STARS members were honored to be recognized for their dedication and commitment to providing the University experiences through student involvement and programs with direct benefit to the University as a whole.

Who we are: Besides being students here on campus, we are leaders. We wear many hats as members of STARS. We are event planners along with the UMass Alumni Relations Staff, hosts and hostesses to Alumni Association events, and representatives of the student body on various planning committees. We are dedicated to the growth of the University. Our pride in the University and in STARS is carried through all we do and support.

STARS place in the career of a UMass student:

STARS was there...

- ...welcoming New Students of UMass at the Freshmen Convocation.
- ...providing fun and excitement with DayOne FunFest on the Library Lawn, the first full day as freshmen.
- ...to deliver Welcome Bundles for New Students from parents and loved ones.
- ...to provide more fun and excitement each and every Homecoming Day, making Homecoming Park by the stadium worthwhile for present students.
- ...to provide a treat for the stress at the end of each semester, giving out water and candy for free at the library during finals and hosting the Winter Semi-formal.
- ...every year, giving students a chance at winning a semester's tuition via raffle.
- ...to welcome families to UMass on Family Weekend.
- ...to host the formal and elegant Commencement Ball for all graduating Seniors!
- ...and will be there to welcome you back each and every Alumni Weekend, keeping your tie to UMass!

18th Annual Asian Night

Asian Night is produced by students for students celebrating the cultural richness of Asia. It is an evening of expression, education, and reflection of the people we are and where we stand as Asians in America today. This year the theme was "Vocal Imprints" and was produced by Winston Chan and Sopheak Tek, with the assistance of Emmy Nam, Beau Sia, Bilinkwellz, and re:verse spoke as the guest speakers.

WILLIAM D. MULLINS CENTER

The William D. Mullins Memorial Center stands proudly along the western horizon of the university campus. Since January of 1993, this multi-purpose facility has consistently offered state-of-the-art sound, lighting, acoustic and theatrical systems, as well as an international-sized ice surface for audiences of 10,500 or more. The Mullins Center hosts concerts, family shows, sporting events, trade shows, conferences and theatrical performances attracting people from all over Western Massachusetts, Northern Connecticut, Vermont, New York and New Hampshire. Our versatile arena can accommodate virtually any size audience including:

- Intimate theater setting (3,500),
- Center and end stage concerts (up to 10,500),
- Basketball games (9,500), and
- Hockey games and ice events (8,500).

Home to the UMass Men's and Women's basketball teams and the UMass Hockey team, a member of collegiate hockey's most prestigious conference, Hockey East, The Mullins Center has hosted such professional teams as the Boston Bruins and New England Blizzard. A separate International-size ice rink and seven racquetball courts, available for public use, are adjacent to the arena.

In addition to University-sponsored events such as the University forum on multiculturalism featuring Bill Cosby, the Mullins Center has provided quality entertainment including performances from All-time greats, Elton John, Aerosmith, James Taylor, and Barry Manilow. Newer favorites, Alanis Morissette, Phish, Melissa Etheridge, Dave Matthews Band, The Smashing Pumpkins and Country Music giants, Willie Nelson, Johnny Cash, Waylon Jennings, Travis Tritt and Kris Kristofferson. Family and skating shows, such as Discover Stars on Ice, the Magic of David Copperfield, and Rugrats a Live Adventure have dazzled thousands. Also, the arena has been the site for rehearsal dates for Mariah Carey, Jimmy Buffett, Bryan Adams, David Bowie and Nine Inch Nails.

Fine Arts Center

Once again, the Fine Arts Center featured outstanding performances and incredible exhibits during 2000-2001. As the Center celebrated its 25th Anniversary, the Boston Pops under conductor Keith Lockhart filled the Concert Hall with lively music and a livelier crowd. Continuing the celebration, the legendary Buena Vista Social Club stopped at the Fine Arts Center for an incredible evening of music and dancing; their UMass concert was one of only eight in the entire U.S.!

The fabulous events of the Fine Arts Center extend far beyond the Concert Hall. The University Gallery featured a sound installation by Rolf Julius; Hampden Gallery exhibited Earthbound, a selection of visual books about landscape by the UMass architecture department. The Residential Arts/OFF Center Series presented the colorful international conference for artists and educators. Asian Dance and Music brought the tropics to the Valley with both a Hula performance and Hula party and feast. Augusta Savage Gallery marked the 25th Anniversary of the Center and their own 30th Anniversary with an exhibition on Memory and a second exhibit on Dreaming. Central Gallery featured the works of local artists including Jim Allen's BLUE, and Magic Triangle Jazz Series sponsored incredible concerts by Jazz talents including Sam Rivers.

It was a spectacular year at the Fine Arts Center, and the 2001-2002 Season promises to be as exciting. For event information and more, head to the Fine Arts Center website at www.fineartscener.com.

Miscellaneous Life

Everyday we woke up and were faced with classes, but everyday was also more than just sitting in a lecture. The student life at UMass was much more than academic. From RSO's to Pub Parties, we can all admit that the best times at UMass were when we were outside of the classroom.

Mission IMPROVable

Mission IMPROVable is Umass' premier improvisational comedy troupe. Every Saturday night, Mission puts on a high-energy, fun-filled show in the Campus Center basement. These shows are completely based on audience suggestions and participation. Mission hosts a number of events throughout the year such as the New England College Improv Jam and the Five College Improv Jam. These events bring troupes from around the area and the country together to perform and share in the fun. Mission has sent a number of performers on to the professional comedy scene in places such as Boston and Chicago, and hopes to keep the tradition alive! Best of luck to our seniors Matt Hicks and Justin McClintock. We'll miss you!

University Productions and Concerts

The University Productions and Concerts, simply better known as UPC, has been presenting concerts on campus since 1977. UPC is a student-run organization designed to enrich campus life by engaging popular musicians to appear in concert.

Tin, Amanda, Nastasna, Amanda, Paul, Jeff, Sumanah, Ethan, An, Christina, and Joe celebrate the success of their Deepseeded Concert held at Butterfield Dorm.

Each year the University of Massachusetts at Amherst holds their annual Spring Concert for all the students on the campus. Spring Concert has grown to be part of a UMass tradition for all students and alumni. Spring Concert is always held on a weekend in April. It is a free event to all students at the University. UPC organizes the show and brings in main stream artists to perform at the concert. Last year Redman, Method Man, and Long Beach Double All Star headlined the concert supported by an array of other artists.

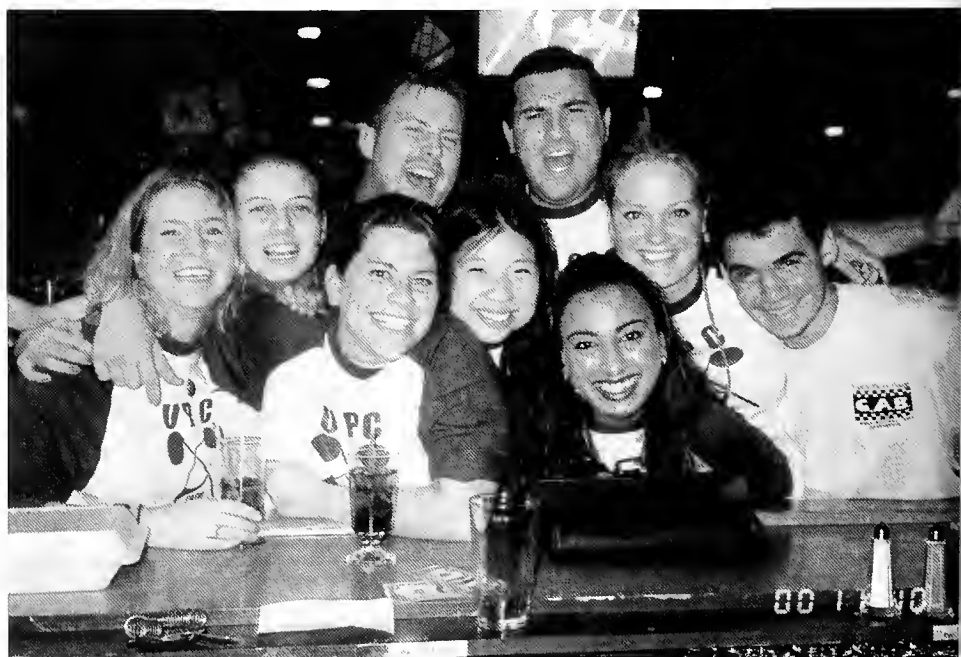

The production manager of UPC, Amanda, shows that everyone, and every thing, likes to smile!

As being part of UPC, the students attend conferences like this one, the NACA Conference, held during the Fall semester in Marlborough, MA. Of course, there's always time to have fun!

Ethan relaxes during his office hours for UPC. Like many RSOs, UPC has office hours from 10am to about 3 pm.

UMass Theatre Guild

The UMass Theatre Guild is one of the many registered student organizations on campus. In fact, it is one of the oldest as well. The Theatre Guild is a completely student-run group whose goal is to provide a social and learning environment to students at UMass, the Amherst community, and members of the Five Colleges who wish to participate in theater related activities. From leading the organization, building the sets, working backstage, performing in the shows, or just being a member, the Guild strives to ensure that everyone involved takes something positive away from their experience.

This past year, the Guild brought four shows to the UMass Campus. In the fall, the musical "Sweet Charity" and Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing" were performed. During the spring the Guild brought "Hair" and Agatha Christie's "...And Then There Were None" to the stage. In addition to the two shows performed each semester the Guild also hosts a Coffeehouse where any student who wants to perform for his or her peers and friends may do so. This year it featured groups such as 6 Minutes, Kolot, Mission Improvable, Vocal Suspects, the Theatre Guild Executive Board, Active Ingredients, and many other students who just wanted to sing, dance, or do whatever.

Each semester the Guild also offers trips to New York City to see a Broadway show or just wander around for the day. In addition, it also offers workshops during the semester, which aim to help people with the auditioning process and to understand Shakespearian works. At the end of each semester the Theatre Guild has a banquet to celebrate the success of those who are leaving the university. Thank you to all members of the class of 2001 who have been part of the Guild.

MassPIRG

The UMass chapter of MassPIRG (Massachusetts Public Interest Research Group) is currently the biggest in the state, bringing UMass students together to work on issues of public concern. During the Fall of 2000, MassPIRG volunteers organized a trip to the White Mountains to educate students and support the end of logging in national forests. In November of 2000 MassPIRG also staged a sleep-out as part of the Hunger and Homelessness campaign. Students taking part in the campaign not only participated in hours of community service, but also helped to raise money and awareness for the cause. MassPIRG also took an active role in the Youth Vote 2000 coalition which helped to register over two thousand new UMass voters, inform them of issues on the ballot, and direct them to voting locations. There was a record voter turnout for the election. Water Watch, a program developed with AmeriCorps, organized student and community river cleanups and presented educational forums. The MassPIRG-organized Book Swap also gave students the option of selling used books to each other at fair prices.

Voila! Heeere's Allen.

At UVC TV 19, students are given free-reign for their creativity and enthusiasm for television. Undergraduates take advantage of opportunities, through the station, to create and produce their own shows. Current programs include variety shows, where students write and act out comedic skits, dramatic acts, and pretty much anything else they can think of. A weekly news show is aired every day, covering the days events on and off campus with respect to their relevance to you, as a student at UMass. The sports crew at UVC brings coverage and analysis of UMass' athletic teams, including our nationally-ranked Minuteman basketball and football teams. Other campus events, from guest speakers to RSO events, are covered by UVC and aired as general programming.

Center for Student Business

The Center for Student Business, one of the University's many learning communities, celebrated its 25th anniversary of offering undergraduate students hands-on training and education in cooperative management of small businesses.

Through experiential learning, students gain life and leadership skills that enhance their academic learning while making a positive contribution to their community. Student businesses are committed to fostering a diverse community in which students from all backgrounds feel welcome and supported.

The Student Businesses were originally created in the 1970's with loans created from the Student Government Association (SGA). The Student Businesses are defined in Title VII of the SGA's Constitution and Bylaws. Student Affairs and the SGA fund the Center for Student Business. It is a division of the Campus Activities Cluster of Student Affairs. The Center for Student Business was nominated for the 2001 NASPA Exemplary Programs award.

Board of Student Businesses

The Board of Student Businesses was recreated in 1994 in order to unify the University's student-run businesses. The Board, which meets weekly during the academic year, consists of 2 elected members from each business, one member from the Center for Student Business, and one SGA link. The mission of the Board is to serve as a support network between the student businesses in addition to serving as a liaison to the CSB, the SGA and the University administration.

(clockwise starting with the back row) Jeff, Zev, Norman, Matt, Marisa, Chris, Jacob, Patrick, Alice, Raven, Simone, Shannon, Mary, and Katelyn are the students who work for CD&C to serve the UMass community.

Campus Design & Copy

Campus Design and Copy is an undergraduate, student-initiated and managed business at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. Its purpose is three-fold: to provide undergraduate students with experience and training in collective management; to serve the University community with copying, design, binding, and note services; and to promote the co-operative and collective movements. It aims to foster ideals of equality and diversity of the workplace. CD&C is a non-profit organization and operates under the model "students working for students."

Sylvan Snack Bar

Sylvan Snack Bar, founded in 1971, is the oldest student-run business on campus. Sylvan offers good food at competitive prices, and even offers the convenience of delivery. Open late night hours seven days a week, Sylvan Snack Bar continues to offer UMass something for students, by students.

Sweets

and more...

With a menu ranging from brownies and ice cream to bagels and grilled cheese sandwiches, Sweets N' More is the on-campus place to go. This student-run business is located in field Residence Hall in Orchard Hill Living Area.

Greeno Sub Shop

Located in Greenough Residence Hall, Greenough Sub Shop is ready and able to serve the campus community, providing a diverse selection from sandwiches to ice cream. This student business is not limited to the residence hall, however. Greenough Sub Shop offers catering for on-campus events, conferences, meetings, and parties.

Earthfoods

Earthfoods is a student-run vegetarian restaurant. It is operated by twenty-eight dedicated undergraduates. All decisions are made by consensus where each member has one vote. Earthfoods strives to be an educational, active, and supportive forum for not only its workers, but for members of the university and the community as well.

This year Earthfoods celebrated its 25th anniversary. They organized a big party where all were welcome.

Earthfoods is located in the Commonwealth room of the Student Union. They are open from 11 a.m.-3 p.m..

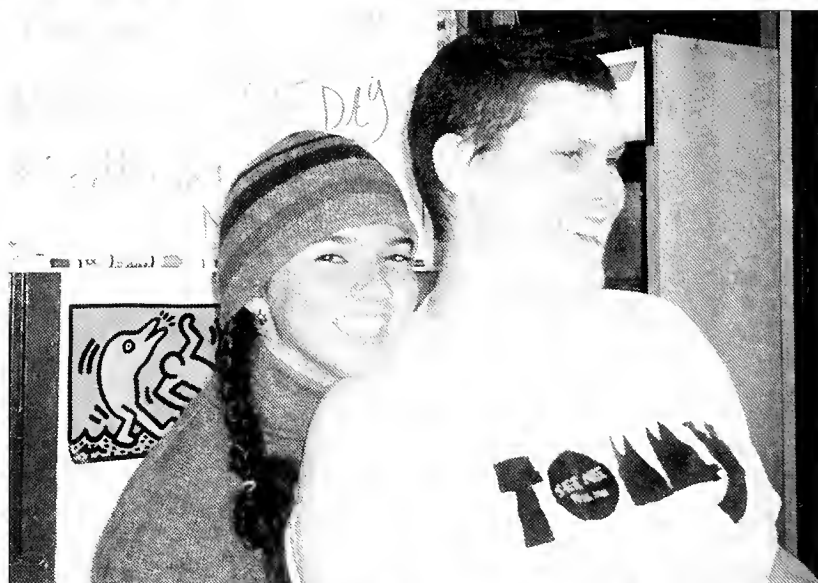

“We might not have any windows, but we do have awesome art and giant paper-mache vegetables hanging from the ceiling!”

People's Market

Founded in 1973, People's Market is a cooperative student-run business. It is one of eight cooperatively run student businesses on the UMass campus. The students working at People's Market are dedicated to providing a socially conscious place at which the University population can purchase fresh and natural whole foods, and to educating its customers about the cooperative and collective movements. The People's Market co-managers and the Center of Student Businesses' employees work very hard to balance their studies and keep the market the unique resource it is. They would like to thank the graduating members of the business and wish the Class of 2001 luck.

TIX Unlimited

Tix Unlimited is an SGA funded student business, which was set up to handle ticket sales for all on-campus events held by Registered Student Organizations. The founding of Tix was state mandated to guarantee that a neutral party would be in charge of ticket sales and money deposits.

The Index yearbook has been part of the UMass tradition for over 125 years. Striving to capture the true UMass experience, the Index includes sections on residential life, academics, sports, RSOs, and campus events. Even though the UMass experience is captured within the yearbook, the national and international societies are not forgotten. A news section is included, as well, to summarize the year while at UMass.

In the school year of 2000-2001, the Index became a student business due to the perseverance of Hieu Nguyen and Brian Kelly. Thanks to their effort, the Index now pays its staff members, an incentive that has increased the number of people working on the yearbook and allows members to devote more time to the making of the Index.

Our staff members, worked extremely hard to make this year's book memorable. Each person made a unique contribution to the yearbook, and the Executive Board appreciates the creativity and dedication of the staff. Thanks!

Bike Co-op

As the bicycle specialists of UMass, the Bike Co-op is dedicated to providing experienced mechanics for the campus' cycling community. The student-run Co-op is a full service repair shop offering quality equipment and accessories at competitive prices.

The University of Massachusetts Fencing program is one of the schools' oldest sporting organizations, tracing its roots back to the fall of 1875. First Lieutenant C.A.L. Totten, Massachusetts Agricultural College's third Professor of Military Science & Tactics, is believed to have founded the sport on campus as an elective option for the schools' corps of cadets. Totten's legacy has seen a progressive evolution as the sport has proven to be a popular if low-key activity on campus. In 1949 UMass Fencing was first recognized as a Registered Student Organization, and has fielded competitive teams since the late 1960's.

While only recognized as a club sport on campus, UMass Fencing has thrived at both club and varsity level, establishing itself as a competitive program in the New England region. Fencers of various skill levels compete for the team, with some recruits having previous experience, but with most being "home grown" through the team's Novice Program or UMass Physical Education classes. The club regularly competes against club programs such as Boston University, and UNH, while also competing against established varsity programs such as Brandeis

M.I.T., Brown, Boston College, and Harvard. UMass Fencing participates against such teams in several different leagues such as the New England Intercollegiate Fencing Conference (NEIFC), and the National Intercollegiate Women's Fencing Association (NIWFA). The team also regularly sends fencers to USFA competitions, including North Atlantic Circuit (NAC) events and the U.S. National Championships.

The 2000-2001 season saw the team in a year of transition, with an overwhelming majority of the thirty-plus members being underclassmen. UMass fencers notched victories against Dartmouth, UNH, Smith & John Hopkins, while also squaring off against new varsity opposition in the form of Sacred Heart, Army, Stephens Tech & CCNY. The women's team did especially well, notching strong individual performances in meets held as far away as Farleigh Dickinson and Virginia Tech. With the team anticipating the loss of only one senior to graduation, the team hopes to build upon this past seasons' accomplishments on into 2002.

David Horowitz

An event, sponsored by the UMass Republican Club on April 3, 2001, brought David Horowitz, a noted controversial speaker, to the UMass Campus. UMass was the fifth stop on Horowitz's "Freedom Tour" during which he spoke about the issue of reparations for slavery. Horowitz believes that reparations for slavery are wrong are illustrated in his, "Ten Reasons Why Reparations for Blacks is a Bad Idea for Blacks - and Racist Too," an ad campaign he tried to run in college newspapers across the country. Inviting Horowitz to speak at the campus caused much protest. Horowitz, however, was allowed to speak, while the Daily Collegian refused to run his ad. The event was just one of many on campus sparking protest and debates in and among the student body.

Outing Club

The UMass Outing Club has had a great year. From canoeing in Texas, to backpacking in the Adirondacks, to climbing and caving in West Virginia, and even hiking in our own backyard, we have had some great trips with excellent campus community involvement. We have led too many hikes to count, and have had an explosion of outdoor trips this spring due to high water and nice temperatures. To all of those graduating students that we may have "taken out into the woods", congratulations and good luck. Remember to enjoy the outdoors.

Student Government Association

The Student Governments Association is the official voice of the University of Massachusetts. It consists of three branches: legislative, executive, and judicial. The legislative power of the SGA rests in the Undergraduate Student Senate. This year the speaker Jim Eltringham and Associate Speaker Michael J. McCarthy headed the senate. The senate includes one representative for every 250 students. These representatives sit on committees such as the Ways and Means, University Policy, Public Policy and Relations, Administrative Affairs, and Diversity Issues. Each of these committees deals with a specific aspect of senate business. For example, members of the Ways and Means committee are responsible for allocating funds from the SGA's annual $1.5 million budget to student organizations.

The Executive Branch Serves to put the actions taken by senate into motion. Members of the executive branch work closely with members of the administration. President Jeffrey Howe and Student Trustee Seth Avakian headed the Executive Branch during the 2000-2001 school year. Cabinet Members included: Colleen Gilchrist as Secretary of the Registry, Sheila Tunney as Secretary of Administrative Affairs, Jefferson Smith as Secretary of Finance, Jennifer Casavant as Secretary of University Policy, Jonathan Laubinger as Attorney General, and Juliet Okafor as Secretary of Diversity Issues.

A Constitution and set of By-Laws govern the SGA. The Judiciary Branch has the final authority on any controversy that arises under those documents. Gabriel Tavarez served as the Chief Justice and Carmelle Belizare serves as the Associate Chief Justice.

Student Union Craft Center

The Student Union Craft Center provides a relaxed atmosphere in which all members of the University community can work on a craft within their own schedule. We provide tools and instructions at all levels free of charge, for stained glass, beadings, fimo, tie-dye, sewing, silk-painting, silk-screening, marblizing, leather, photography, linoleum block printing, etc. We welcome complete beginners as well as the advanced. We are available for your assistance whenever you need it, either for getting started on a craft, or helping you fix something in need of repair. You may also take advantage of our special month-long workshops.

Football

The UMass season came to a close on Saturday November 18, 2000. Marcel Shipp closed out his college career with a four-touchdown, 156-yard rushing performance as Massachusetts came back in the second half to defeat Rhode Island 29-21. Rhode Island pulled ahead 14-7 on a 76-yard pass from Nedimyer to Salim Wellington. On the next series, Massachusetts scored on five plays, capping a 63-yard drive with a Shipp 2-yard touchdown run. Rhode Island's Marc Zlotek blocked the extra point attempt. The two teams traded touchdowns midway through the third quarter before a Doug White 30-yard field goal late in the period put UMass up for good, 23-21. Massachusetts increased its lead to 29-21 as Shipp scored on a 2-yard run - his fourth score of the game - with 2:06 left. The Minutemen ended their season with a 7-4 record.

Volleyball

The 2000 UMASS volleyball team celebrated a successful season with hard work and determination. This year's line up includes players from all over the country, Puerto Rico, and Canada. The volleyball program, as it is, has only been in existence for eight years, yet every year, the team is both competitive and has all-star players. This season, the UMASS volleyball team is ranked by the RPI in the top third out of 308 schools. Despite a rocky start, the team's second half record was 10-4. The greatest victory for the team, thus far this season, included a win over Temple in their final game. This victory allowed UMASS to knock Temple out of their first place conference standing and host the conference championships. Each and every player contributed her all and helped create an extremely successful season. The team, led by its co-captains Rebecca Husson and Lymarie Llovet, defeated much of its competition with the aid of other powerful players such as Jenni Drennan and Jen Davis. This young team looks forward to the up and coming seasons with anticipation and confidence that they will be as successful as this season.

Men's Swimming and Diving

The 2001 Men's Swimming and Diving team was extremely successful this season. Once again, for a fourth time, the team won the Atlantic 10 Championships, this team had many players meet and break long standing records. The team had a 187 point lead over the second place team in the championship. Each swimmer and diver contributed greatly to the wins. This season, Billy Brown qualified for the NCAA's Championship meet in the 200m breast stroke. Another valuable player, Chris Arsenault has won 6 A-10 titles in his swimming career at UMass. Other valuable members of the team include senior Mike Sabina, sophomore Chad Arnold, and junior Ryan Fisher. For the third time in his career, Coach Russ Yarworth was named A-10 Coach of the Year.

Men's Basketball

This was another busy season for the UMass Men's basketball team. It was full of wins, losses, and changes. After 15 losses and 15 wins, the UMass Minutemen made it to the Atlantic 10 tournament where they played their best. Among the highlights, senior shooting guard, Monty Mack has been called "one of the most prolific scorers in UMass and Atlantic 10 history." But he's not the only one working on the court; the whole team contributes and strives to win even with their busy game schedule. James "Bruiser" Flint resigned as head coach of UMass men's basketball after his 5th season. Filling his place as head coach will be Steve Lappas, who will become the 19th coach in school history. After a long tough season, the team was ready for a break and waits until they begin their new season.

Women's Basketball

The 2000-2001 UMass Women's Basketball team finished the season with a respectable 12-17 record. The team played a difficult schedule and advanced to the Atlantic Ten Quarterfinals before losing to Xavier. Each member of the team contributed greatly to the success of the season. The 2000-2001 team was complete with players that encompassed determination as well as athleticism. Despite, Co-Captain, Nekole Smith being out for the season with a knee injury, the team progressed forward and was competitive in their league. Kathy Coyner, senior Co-Captain stepped up and played at an extremely high level. Her performance both on and off the court paid off as she was selected to play on the Atlantic 10 All-Academic Team. Other members of the team contributing greatly to the success this season include sophomore Jennifer Butler, sophomore Amber Sneed, as well as Junior Caroline Nehls. Coach Janice O'Brien was able to put together a team that was able to focus and work well together. With huge wins, such as the Atlantic 10 tournament win over Road Island, the UMass Women's Basketball team looks forward to next season with anticipation.

Men's and Women's Skiing

Both the UMass Men's and Women's Ski Teams had a successful season, with both teams qualifying for both the NCAA and United States College Ski Association (USCSA) Regional competitions. The Men's Team finished off their season at the USCSA Regionals with a seventh place finish, just over two seconds behind the last qualifier for the USCSA Nationals. The Women's Team, however, with a fourth-place finish at the USCSA Regionals, was one of five teams to advance to the National Championships in Bogus Basin, Idaho on March 6, 2001. There they competed with 19 teams and finished their season in ninth-place.

Cheerleading

The cheerleading squad put a lot of time, work, and energy into this year's program. The three quads, Varsity Co-Ed, Varsity All-Girl, and Mascot program, travel all over the country in support of UMass Athletics. Since becoming part of the Athletic Department in 1994, the squad has become a nationally recognized program, having participated in the National Cheerleaders Association National Competition for four consecutive years. Congratulations on a great season and best of luck to the graduating seniors.

LETTER FROM THE CHANCELLOR

Dear Graduates,

The Trustees, faculty, and staff of the University of Massachusetts salute the great accomplishments of your class, the class of 2001.

The 4,000-plus members of your class come from thirty four states and twenty one countries; range in age from sixteen to fifty seven, earned degrees from sixty departments and interdisciplinary programs, majoring in eighty five subject areas. Some eight hundred students studied in other countries; eight percent of this class graduated from the Honors Program, and thirty percent of those who entered as a freshman participated in first-year learning communities.

There was much to celebrate in your four years: Commonwealth College, the state's public Honors College was established on campus; a new Computer Science building opened; the Center For Teaching received national recognition; a new award-winning logo was developed leading to a stronger image for the University; Campaign UMass concluded one year early raising over 130 million dollars; ninety eight percent of the buildings on campus were wired for a total of nearly 22,000 internet connections; in 1998 the football team won the Division I-AA National Championship and in 1999, the Minutemen Marching Band – “The Power and Class of New England” – won the Sudler Trophy, the most prestigious national band award. And the University was ranked among the top ten public Universities nationally in the value of your education for the cost.

Commenting on the personal transformative power of education and the vital role of education in preserving our democracy, President John Fitzgerald Kennedy wrote:

“Let us think of education as the means of developing our greatest abilities, because in each of us there is a private hope and dream which, fulfilled, can be translated into benefit for everyone and greater strength for our nation.”

For 2001's graduates, UMass was where your hopes and dreams were shaped, nurtured, and catalyzed into actions. We celebrate your contributions to the University, this region, the Commonwealth, and the nation. Remember, while your UMass family extends around the world, you are always welcome back home.

It has been a privilege to serve you and this University as Chancellor for eight years, and as we leave the University together words of a popular song come to mind:

*“We are the boat; we are the sea.
I sail in you; you sail in me.”*

Best wishes on all you voyages and come home to this UMass port often,

David K. Scott
Chancellor

OUR RANDI

*The morning sunrise
A rainbow paints the sky
The first winter snow
Our first glance at your eyes
You came into our world
A beauty I might add
You were Daddy's little girl
And the best gift I ever had Independent from the start
With a mind of her own
Mastered developmental skills quite early
All lessons well honed
A keen sense of wisdom
At such a young age
People live a lifetime
And barely reach that stage
Someday you will be a mom
Only then will you know
Our children live in our hearts
Each day as they grow
With love and great care
We teach values and respect
We nurture, we worry,
We cherish and protect
From diapers to cap and gown
From baby shoes to heels
Our emotions are at an all-time high
You can't imagine how this feels
Where did those years go
Our precious little one
Cheerleading, jazz, field hockey and tennis
We hope you had fun*

*But time marches on
We enjoyed the parade
In gifts from your heart
Consider all expenses paid
For this is one moment in time
When parents reap rewards
As a result of your persistence and fortitude
It is you we applaud
You have risen above
All our hopes and expectations
Focused and poised
We sing your praises with elation
A woman of substance
Secure in her decisions
Analyzes a situation
With confidence and precision
We feel blessed beyond belief
With our college grad at our side
We marvel at all you have achieved
Our hearts overflowing with pride
To your beautiful tomorrows
May happiness greet you at each door
May you know no sorrows
May your life be all you hoped for
Remember "Somewhere Out There"
We will always be
Your Daddy's little sweetheart
And, a best friend to me
LOVE AND GODSPEED,
MOMMY and DADDY*

Dear Randi,

From the crib to college, we were always close in age, and although you will always be my little sister, with your warm heart and limitless compassion, you have always acted like a big sister. I cannot write the words to express the pride and admiration I have for you and for the spirited drive you have demonstrated to us all. Just know, I shall always be there to cheer you on as you use the qualities that make you so special to meet the challenges ahead, to attain your goals, and to fulfill your dreams. Love ya!

*With Love and Pride,
Eric*

DEAR RANDI,

*CONGRATULATIONS AND LOTS OF GOOD
LUCK AND SUCCESS IN ALL OF YOUR FUTURE
ENDEAVORS ~JUST AS YOU HAVE ACCOMPLISHED THROUGHOUT THE LAST FOUR YEARS.*

*LOADS OF LOVE,
ME MA & PE PA*

DEAR RANDI OUR BEAUTIFUL GRANDDAUGHTER

*IT SEEMS LIKE YESTERDAY THAT YOU WERE BORN AND NOW WE ARE HERE AT YOUR COLLEGE
GRADUATION. YOU TURNED OUT TO BE A
WONDERFUL AND TALENTED YOUNG LADY AND I CANNOT DESCRIBE HOW VERY PROUD WE ARE OF
YOU. MAY ALL YOUR DREAMS AND AMBITIONS BE FULFILLED. WE LOVED YOU THEN, TODAY, AND ALWAYS.*

*YOUR GRANDPARENTS,
MA MA & PA PA*

DEAR RANDI,

*MAY ALL YOUR DREAMS BE AS SPECIAL AS TODAY, AND MAY THEY ALL COME TRUE. YOU'VE GROWN UP BEFORE OUR VERY EYES, AND WE ARE SO PROUD AS TO WHAT YOU'VE BECOME. YOU
ARE A BEAUTIFUL GIRL INSIDE AS WELL AS OUT. MAY THE STARS
ALWAYS BE AT YOUR FINGERTIPS, AND YOU SHOULD ALWAYS HAVE OPPORTUNITY TO TOUCH THEM ALL. WE LOVE YOU MORE AND MORE EACH DAY!*

AUNTIE AND UNCLE LLOYD

DEAR RANDI,

WAY TO GO!! HUGS AND KISSES,

SAMANTHA AND STEVEN

Stories for a Day, Traveling Matt

We are proud of your achievements and excited by the infinite
'something better' awaiting you in the not so distant 'far away'.

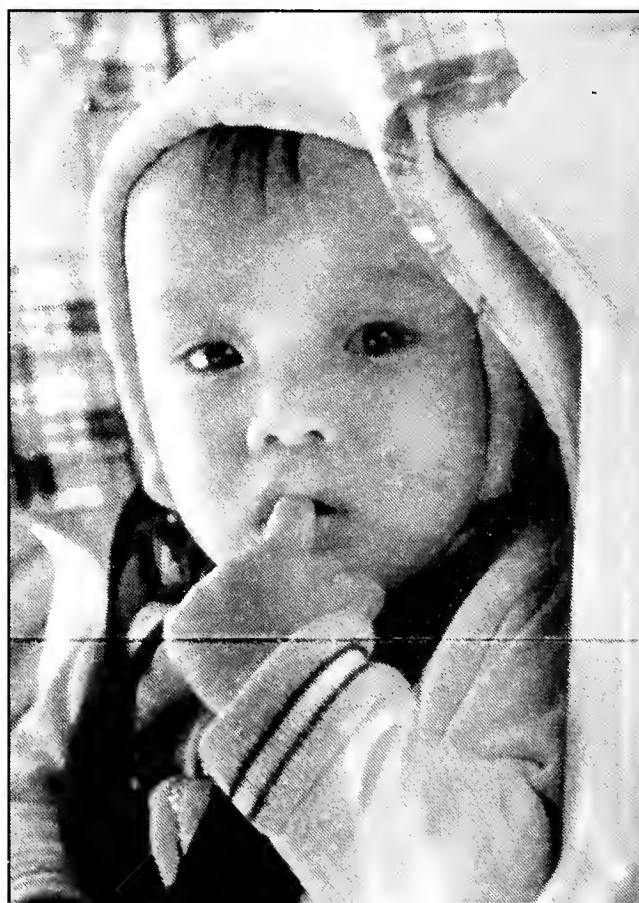

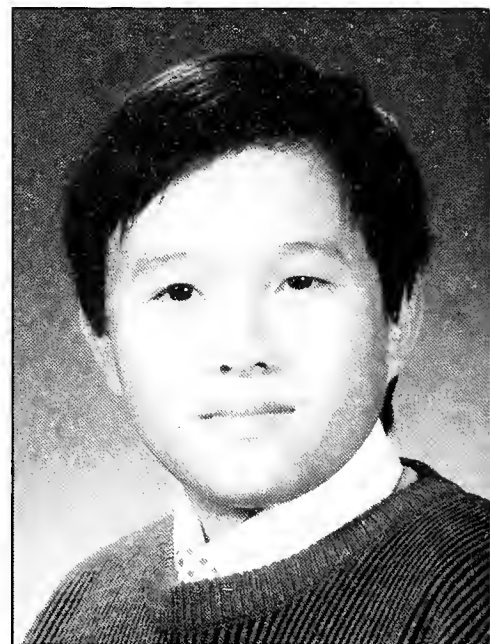

May you always measure your life in dreams!

Dear Nathan,

Poised for that fleeting moment, your image generates so many wonderful memories and proud reflections. For now, all the blue books are complete and you're ready to use your talents in the next phase of your life. Your accomplishments have brought us great joy and we are so pleased with your success.

All our love,
Dad, Mom, Joshua, and your grandparents

To our lovely daughter, Sarah Koske,
We are so proud of you. You have always done your best and achieved much in your life.
You have amazed us up to this moment, we can only imagine where you will go from here!
Just remember ' . . . in our hearts you will always be, forever young.'
Congratulations and lots of love,
Mom and Dad

Christopher,
 May the road rise up to meet you
 May the wind always be at your back
 May the rain fall gently on your fields
 May the sun always warm your face
 May GOD hold you in the palm of his hand

Dear Christopher,

Be not afraid to take the road less traveled.
 For that is where you will make a difference. We also hope that when you get the chance to sit or out or dance in life, that you will always dance.

Love always,

Mom & Dad, Dawn & Jeremy, Alexis &
 Makenzie, Ninny, David & Nathan, Terri &
 Hector, and Nana Silvio

Dear Kevin,

"Climb every mountain, search high and low
 Follow every byway, every path you know.
 Climb every mountain, for d every stream,
 Follow every rainbow, till you find your dream."

You've overcome many obstacles during the past four years and have grown along the way. We are so proud of all that you have accomplished. Keep working towards the goals that you have set for yourself. We know that you can do anything that you set your mind to.

Mazel Tov on your graduation.

Love, Mom, Dad, Josh, and Jordana
